GMUN's MISSION & VISION

At GMUN, we envision a vibrant community of students, faculty, and individuals united by a shared passion for fostering global citizenship, critical thinking, and effective communication. Our mission is to provide a platform for young minds to engage, debate, and collaborate on pressing contemporary issues, empowering them to become empathetic, informed, and active participants in shaping a better world.

We are committed to building a vocally diverse community in which various perspectives are valued, respected, and nurtured. Toward this end, we have hosted and will continue to host events, initiatives, and activities for high schools , colleges, and faculty from diverse backgrounds. We aim to create a safe, supportive, and stimulating environment that allows individuals to express themselves freely, challenge their assumptions, and grow as global citizens.

We know that personal prejudices and biases can dilute our ability to relate to others, empathise with others' viewpoints, and make logical decisions. We are therefore committed to helping people overcome such biases, respect facts and statistics, and develop a multifaceted view of things. Through our workshops and events, we aim to provide students with the skills, knowledge, and attitude needed to address the challenges to the 21st century

As a dynamic and vibrant community, we endeavour to make a positive contribution to our communities, our country, and global society. Together, with collective effort, knowledge sharing, and learning from one another, we believe it is possible to build a better, more equitable, and sustainable future for all.

2. About GITAM Deemed to be University
3. About Visakhapatnam
4. What is Model UN?
5. Why Participate in Model UN?

1) ABOUT GMUN

The GITAM Model United Nations (GMUN) is a student-led platform dedicated to fostering diplomacy, leadership, and global awareness through meaningful dialogue and Model United Nations simulations. Established in 2022 as a Student Interest Group and recognised as an official university club in 2024, GMUN empowers students to develop public speaking, negotiation, critical thinking, and policy-making skills. By promoting evidence-based discussions and diverse perspectives, it bridges academic learning with real-world global challenges. GMUN provides an inclusive space where future leaders collaborate, innovate, and engage with issues of national and international significance. Proudly, it is the only Model United Nations organisation in Andhra Pradesh to have successfully hosted four MUN conferences, reflecting its commitment to excellence and impactful student engagement.

Why GMUN Matters

- Learn by doing. We turn classroom theory into hands-on, real-world experience. • Think across subjects. Our work draws on international relations, political science, and related fields, giving members a well-rounded education.
- Build a wider network. MUN conferences connect our members with students from other institutions, fostering friendships and teamwork that extend beyond GITAM. • Prepare for what's next. The public speaking, negotiation, and diplomacy skills students build here are valued across nearly every career path.
- Add to campus life. Through our events, workshops, and guest lectures, GMUN adds to the academic and cultural life of the university.

- Whether you're completely new to Model UN or you've already sat through a few conferences, there's a place for you at GMUN.

2) ABOUT GITAM DEEMED TO BE A UNIVERSITY

GITAM (Gandhi Institute of Technology and Management) is a deemed-to-be-university founded in 1980, positioned at the intersection of multidisciplinary applied education and translational research, with 12 schools spread across its Bengaluru, Hyderabad, and Visakhapatnam campuses (plus GIMSR, its dedicated medical sciences campus). 3) ABOUT VISHAKAPATNAM

VISAKHAPATNAM

Where the coast meets the city

Visakhapatnam, popularly known as Vizag, is a coastal city on the eastern shore of India, nestled between the Bay of Bengal and the Eastern Ghats. Known for its beaches, hills, maritime heritage, and vibrant culture, the city offers a distinctive setting for students and visitors from across the country.

As one of Andhra Pradesh's major cities and an important port and industrial centre, Visakhapatnam combines a growing modern identity with a rich historical and cultural heritage. The city is also home to the Eastern Naval Command of the Indian Navy.

For GMUN delegates, Visakhapatnam offers more than just a conference destination. Its coastline, heritage, food, and surrounding landscapes provide plenty to explore beyond committee rooms.

A city worth exploring

Ramakrishna Beach

One of the city's best-known coastal landmarks is located along the scenic Beach Road.

Kailasagiri

A hilltop destination overlooking the sea, known for its panoramic views and landscaped surroundings.

Yarada Beach

A picturesque beach surrounded by hills, offering one of the more scenic coastal landscapes around

Visakhapatnam.

Submarine Museum

The decommissioned submarine museum on RK Beach is one of Visakhapatnam's distinctive attractions and reflects the city's strong maritime identity.

Simhachalam

An important historic and religious site located in the hills around Visakhapatnam, known for its architecture and cultural significance.

4) WHAT IS MUN

An Educational Simulation of the Real UN?

Model United Nations, or MUN, is an educational simulation of the real United Nations. It gives students a hands-on way to learn how the UN works, not from a textbook but by stepping into the role of a diplomat.

At a MUN conference, each student takes on the role of a "delegate" representing a country or, sometimes, an organisation. Delegates research their assigned country's actual position on a real global issue, then debate, negotiate, and try to reach an agreement with other delegates, much like real UN diplomats do. Delegates argue for their assigned country's stance, not their own personal opinions, which is part of what makes MUN such a valuable exercise in seeing an issue from multiple perspectives.

MUN is neither a small nor a recent trend. It began not long after the UN itself was founded, and today hundreds of thousands of students, from primary school through university, take part in MUN conferences around the world every year. The United Nations recognises its value, too. Through General Assembly Resolution 77/336, the UN formally acknowledged Model UN's role in engaging young people with its work and building support for international cooperation, and it works with MUN organisers around the world to help conferences run as true to life as possible. (sourced from a website)

5) WHY PARTICIPATE IN MUN?

Build real skills, not just theory. MUN sharpens public speaking, research, and writing skills through actual practice. Delegates learn to think on their feet, structure an argument, and speak with confidence in front of a room.

Get a head start on global affairs. For many students, MUN is their first real introduction to international issues such as peace and security, human rights, and sustainable development. It turns headlines into something you actually understand and can discuss.

Learn to negotiate and find common ground. Much like the real UN, MUN conferences often work toward consensus rather than a simple vote. That means delegates have to genuinely listen to other viewpoints and learn how to reach an agreement everyone can accept, not just win an argument.

Step into someone else's shoes. Representing a country that isn't your own pushes you to understand a perspective different from the one you grew up with, building empathy and a broader worldview.

Open doors for the future. Many of today's leaders in law, government, business, and the arts, including people who now work at the UN itself, took part in Model UN as students. The skills built at a MUN conference carry far beyond the debate floor.

About the COMMITTEES and brief

UNEA — United Nations Environment Assembly Governing body of UNEP

AGENDA: Regulating the Global Water Footprint of Artificial Intelligence:
Addressing Emerging Challenges and Promoting Inclusive Water Governance

The United Nations Environment Assembly is the world's highest-level decision-making body on environmental matters, established in 2012 following the Rio+20 Conference. It brings together all 193 UN Member States to set the global environmental agenda, shape international environmental law, and mobilise funding for ecological action. Often called the "parliament of the environment," UNEA adopts resolutions on issues ranging from climate change to plastic pollution and biodiversity loss. It also strengthens the science-policy interface by grounding decisions in credible research. For this committee, delegates will negotiate binding and non-binding measures to address today's most urgent environmental crises.

UNHRC — United Nations Human Rights Council

AGENDA: Regulating Illicit Arms Trade and Trafficking: Curbing Acquisition by Terrorist and Non-State Armed Actors.

The UNHRC is a 47-member inter-governmental body established in 2006 to promote and protect human rights worldwide. It addresses situations of human rights violations, conducts the Universal Periodic Review of every Member State's human rights record, and works through Special Rapporteurs and independent experts. The Council responds to emergencies such as conflict-driven abuses, refugee crises, and threats to civil liberties. It also engages closely with governments, regional bodies, and civil society to prevent violations before they escalate. Delegates will debate pressing human rights issues, from digital rights to accountability for war crimes.

UN Ad-hoc Committee on Media and Information

Modelled on the UN Committee on Information (UNGA Fourth Committee)

AGENDA: Safeguarding Press Freedom and Ensuring Freedom of Speech and Expression While Combating the Rise of Misinformation in the Contemporary World

This committee is modelled on the real UN Committee on Information, established in 1978 to examine global public-information policy and promote a free, balanced flow of news and data. In its ad-hoc, contemporary form, it tackles issues the original mandate never anticipated — disinformation campaigns, AI-generated content, and algorithm-driven narrative control. It also champions press freedom and the safety of journalists operating in conflict or authoritarian settings. The committee seeks to recommend frameworks for the ethical governance of emerging media technologies. Delegates will confront the rapidly evolving battle among truth, technology, and information warfare.

UNGA-DISEC — Disarmament and International Security Committee UNGA First Committee

AGENDA: Regulating Illicit Arms Trade and Trafficking: Curbing Acquisition by Terrorist and Non-State Armed Actors

DISEC is the first of the UN General Assembly's six main committees, open to all 193 Member States, and is dedicated to disarmament and international security. It addresses the proliferation of nuclear, chemical, biological, and conventional weapons, working closely with the UN Disarmament Commission and the Conference on Disarmament. Increasingly, it also tackles emerging threats such as cyber warfare, autonomous weapons, and the militarisation of outer space. The committee promotes confidence-building measures and cooperative security frameworks among nations. Delegates will negotiate solutions to some of the world's most consequential security challenges.

MCU — Marvel Cinematic Universe Committee Crisis simulation committee

AGENDA: “Reaffirming States’ Obligations to Protect: Ensuring Accountability for Abuses of State Power”

This special crisis committee places delegates within the fictional world of the Marvel Cinematic Universe, representing superheroes, organisations such as S.H.I.E.L.D. or the Avengers, and governmental bodies operating within that universe. It tests crisis diplomacy through chairperson-driven scenarios ranging from extra-terrestrial threats to the regulation of enhanced individuals, echoing in-universe frameworks like the Sokovia Accords. Delegates must stay true to their character's powers and worldview while negotiating collective security. The format rewards improvisation, lateral thinking, and rapid coalition-building. It is a popular addition to modern MUN circuits, blending pop culture with serious diplomatic skill.

IFI — Indian Film Industry Committee

AGENDA: The Price of a Surname: Nepotism and the Fight for a Place in Indian Cinema

This committee simulates the ecosystem of the Indian film industry, spanning Bollywood and regional cinema such as Tamil, Telugu, Malayalam, and Bengali film, alongside production houses, streaming platforms, and regulatory bodies like the Central Board of Film Certification. Delegates represent producers, directors, studio heads, and industry associations negotiating commercial, creative, and regulatory challenges. Key debates include content certification and creative freedom, the rise of OTT platforms, and piracy. The committee also explores the global expansion and soft-power potential of Indian cinema. It offers a fresh, industry-driven alternative to traditional state-based diplomacy.

7. FIFA — Fédération Internationale de Football Association

This committee simulates FIFA, the global governing body of association football, comprising 211 member associations. Delegates represent national federations, confederations such as UEFA and AFC, or FIFA's own executive bodies, addressing the sport's sporting, commercial, and governance dimensions. Core issues include World Cup hosting and reform, anti-corruption governance, player welfare and transfer regulations, and the use of technology such as VAR. The committee also confronts discrimination and fan violence within football. Delegates will negotiate as federations and stakeholders rather than sovereign states, balancing commercial interests with the integrity of the game.

GITAM Visakhapatnam Campus

Where learning meets the coast

Set against the scenic backdrop of the Eastern Ghats and the Bay of Bengal, the GITAM Visakhapatnam campus brings together education, innovation and campus life in one vibrant environment. Established in 1980, the Visakhapatnam campus is GITAM's main hub and brings several academic disciplines together in a single campus.

Spread across 100+ acres, the campus is home to schools and programmes covering areas such as engineering, computer science, science, management, humanities and social sciences, law, architecture and pharmacy. This multidisciplinary environment allows students from different fields to learn, interact and collaborate with one another.

The campus combines modern academic infrastructure with spaces designed for research, recreation and community. Students have access to classrooms, laboratories, research facilities, a central Knowledge Resource Centre, auditoriums, sports facilities, dining spaces and residential facilities. GITAM's Knowledge Resource Centre serves as an important academic resource for students, faculty and researchers, with access to resources across GITAM's institutional libraries.

Beyond academics, the campus encourages students to explore interests outside their classrooms. Sports facilities include a cricket ground, basketball court, gymnasium and throwball court, while student clubs and campus activities provide opportunities to pursue creative, cultural, technical and social interests.

One of the defining features of GITAM's Visakhapatnam campus is its setting. Located in Rushikonda, the campus offers students the experience of studying in a coastal city while remaining surrounded by greenery and the natural landscape of the Eastern Ghats. GITAM itself describes the location as one of the scenic settings for higher education in Andhra Pradesh.

Student Life at GITAM

Student Life is the driving force behind the vibrant co-curricular culture at GITAM. It brings together and supports the university's diverse network of student clubs, Special Interest Groups, events and student-led initiatives, giving students a platform to explore their interests beyond the classroom. The Directorate of Student Life focuses on creating opportunities for students to develop leadership, creativity, communication, teamwork and organisational skills through active participation in campus life.

From cultural and creative communities to technical, entrepreneurial, social and professional clubs, students can find spaces to connect with like-minded peers and turn their interests into meaningful experiences. GITAM also encourages students to create Special Interest Groups around niche interests, making student life more inclusive and student-driven.

At its heart, Student Life is about giving students the freedom to explore, the platform to create and the opportunity to lead.

According to GITAM's 2024–25 the Directorate of Student Life supported 81+ active Clubs and Special Interest Groups across the three campuses, highlighting the scale of student-led engagement at GITAM

☐ I have read, understood, and agree to the [Terms and Conditions] of GMUN 5.0.

Note for the GMUN team: bracketed fields (dates, fee amount, venue, and contact details) need to be filled in with GMUN 5.0's finalised specifics before this is published. On the enforceability side, an absolute "not liable under any circumstances" clause (Section 10.1) generally won't survive a claim of gross negligence or willful default under Indian law, even though it's standard boilerplate for student-run events. Worth keeping in mind if this ever gets tested, rather than just displayed.
